Passage Home Announces Four New Hires Ann Turnbull, David Brown II, Kristi Page and Lamont Middleton

RALEIGH, N.C. – Passage Home, a nationally recognized Community Action Agency with a mission to break the cycle of poverty for the communities it serves in Wake County, is pleased to announce the addition of four new employees: Ann Turnbull, David Brown II, Kristi Page and Lamont Middleton.

Ann Turnbull joins the Passage Home leadership team as the director of development. In this role, she will oversee the planning, implementation and evaluation of Passage Home's resource development strategies. Turnbull graduated from North Carolina State University with a degree in communications. In her 16 years of nonprofit and corporate business experience, she served in such roles as the vice president of development for Wake Education Partnership and the director of corporate relations for Futures for Kids.

David Brown II joins Passage Home as the Raleigh Safety and Community Club site manager and program director. In this role, he will provide senior management to the chief program officer to create, support and administer programs and policies that ensure compliance with all private regulations and guidelines. Brown graduated from Shaw University with a degree in accounting. He has 15 years of nonprofit experience, most recently with the Southeast Raleigh Assembly.

Kristi Page joins Passage Home as the self-sufficiency director. In this role, she will provide master's level clinical supervision to all self-sufficiency services staff. Page graduated from the UNC School of Social Work with a master of social work degree. Prior to joining Passage Home, Page served as the director of financial education for the Compass Center for Women and Families.

Lamont Middleton joins Passage Home's youth development team as a youth supervisor. In this role, Middleton will help oversee and facilitate Passage Home's various youth programs, consisting of nearly 100 children. Programs include after school care, leadership development, homework assistance and summer camp. Middleton graduated from St. John's University with a master of criminal justice leadership degree. Prior to joining Passage Home, Middleton served as the community outreach coordinator for Wake County's ReEntry Inc.

"I'm confident that the addition of Ann, David, Kristi and Lamont will strengthen our team as we develop people, develop places and strengthen communities in and around Wake County," said Passage Home CEO Jeanne Tedrow.
